

ELIZABETH J. CABRASER

Lieff, Cabraser, Heimann & Bernstein, LLP
San Francisco, CA 94111

ELIZABETH J. CABRASER, a founding partner of Lieff, Cabraser, Heimann & Bernstein, LLP, has 30 years experience representing plaintiffs in securities, investment, and consumer fraud; product liability; and human and civil rights litigation. Ms. Cabraser received her A.B. in 1975, and her J.D. in 1978, from the University of California at Berkeley. She has written and lectured extensively on federal civil procedure, complex litigation, securities litigation, class action trials and settlements, mass tort litigation, and substantive tort law issues. Her litigation experience includes leadership roles in the FPI/Agretech, Breast Implants, Telectronics, Cordis, Felbatol, Fen-Phen (Diet Drugs), Baycol, Bextra/Celebrex, Guidant, Vioxx, and Vytorin MDLs, and work for smokers, Attorneys General and the Cities and Counties of California in Tobacco Litigation. She has served as court-appointed lead or co-lead counsel in over 80 federal multidistrict proceedings, and has participated in the design, structure and conduct of eight nationwide class action trials in securities fraud, product liability, mass accident and consumer cases in state and federal courts.

Ms. Cabraser has served as Visiting Professor of Law at Columbia University and Adjunct Professor of Law at the University of California, Berkeley (Boalt Hall), teaching complex litigation, class actions, and mass torts. She currently teaches complex litigation at Berkeley. She has lectured and conducted seminars for the Federal Judicial Center, ALI-ABA, the National Center for State Courts, Vanderbilt University Law School, and the Practicing Law Institute. She serves on the American Law Institute (ALI) Council. She is Editor-in-Chief of the treatise California Class Action Practice and Procedure (LexisNexis). Her recent articles include “The Manageable Nationwide Class: A Choice-of-Law Legacy of Phillips Petroleum Co. v. Shutts”, 74 UMKC L. Rev. 543 (Spring 2006), “The Class Action Counterreformation”, 57 Stanford L. Rev. 1475, (April 2005); “Human Rights Violations As Mass Torts: Compensation As A Proxy For Justice In The United States Civil Litigation System”, 57 Vanderbilt L. Rev. 2211 (November 2004); “Unfinished Business: Reaching The Due Process Limits Of Punitive Damages In Tobacco Litigation Through Unitary Classwide Adjudication”, 36 Wake Forest L. Rev. 979, (Winter 2001); “Enforcing The Social Compact Through Representative Litigation”, 33 Connecticut L. Rev. 1239 (Summer 2001); and “Life After Amchem: The Class Struggle Continues”, 31 Loyola L. Rev. 373 (January 1998).

Cabraser has received the Trial Lawyers for Public Justice Public Justice Achievement Award for her work as class counsel in the Polybutylene Pipe Litigation; the Consumer Attorneys of California’s 1998 Presidential Award of Merit and 2008 Edward J. Pollock Award for her commitment to consumer protection; the Anti-Defamation League’s Distinguished Jurisprudence Award for her work in the federal Holocaust Litigation in 2002; and the Boalt Hall Citation Award in 2003. She received the University of San Francisco School of Law’s 2007 “Award for Public Interest Excellence.” She has been named repeatedly as one of The National Law Journal’s “100 Most Influential Lawyers in America,” one of its “50 Most Influential Women Lawyers,” and its “Top Ten Women Litigators.” She has been annually included in the Daily Journal’s “Top 100 Lawyers” since 1998; its 2005-2008 “Top Women Litigators,” and its 2005 “Top 30 Securities Litigators.”